

ZULULAND WING SHOOTING HUNT DESCRIPTION

A Bird Hunting safari with this world-class outfitter in Zululand South Africa is normally 4-6 days encountering 4 species of Ducks, 2 species of Geese, 3 species of Doves, Rock Pigeons, driven Guinea fowl and Francolin. With more than 30 years of experience in the bird hunting field, one will experience a bird shoot like never before!

This outfitters' high volume decoyed Duck shooting is done in dry blinds over water. Experience flight after flight of Yellow-billed Ducks and Red-Billed Teal coming in to roosting ponds in the early afternoon. 10-20 ducks per gun per shoot is normal.

The Goose hunting is done in pit blinds on reaped corn fields with more than 100 decoys. The Spurwing Goose is one of the biggest in the world weighing close to 20 pounds. The hard beating sound from the wings of these huge geese is deafening when 100 or more put their landing gear out to land amongst the decoys. You may expect up to 10 geese per gun per shoot.

This outfitters' hot-barreled dove shooting is done near reaped corn fields on a tree line or in a draw. The African Turtle Dove has been written up as being "...the most challenging Game bird in the world...". It will test the most accomplished wing shooter and leave many humbled by their all-angled approach and sudden direction change. Expect 100-250 shells per gun per shoot.

Rock Pigeons are decoyed into the open corn field. It is not unusual to have 20 to 30 pigeons fluttering over your decoys as you take a left and a right on these beautiful terracotta and white-speckled birds. Expect 100-250 shells per gun per shoot.

Guinea fowl and Francolin are driven over hunters with more than 20 chanting Zulu's in a similar way to the bull horn formation tactic invented and used in battle by the infamous Shaka Zulu himself. Experience a victory dance by the Zulu beaters after your successful hunt. 10-30 birds in a morning is normal.

Come hunt with this world-class outfitter in Zululand, South Africa to experience a Bird hunting safari filled with action, good food, luxury accommodation and above all....good fun!
